Fee Structure and Policies

- Sessions involving Advanced Rolfing®, Rolfing Movement or bodywork are $100, and are approximately 60 minutes long.
 - 12 sessions paid in advance: $1100
 - 6 sessions paid in advance: $575
- Children’s sessions range from 20-60 minutes, and are charged on a time basis at the above rates.
- Coaching, Facilitation, Process Work, or Supervision consultations not involving Bodywork or Rolfing (including telephone consultations) are $75-$125/hour sliding scale, and are typically scheduled as either 30, 60, or 75 minutes long (charged on a time basis at the above hourly rates).
- Miscellaneous policies: the above prices include check/cash discount. I accept Visa and Master Card, or you may also pay online via PayPal.com (use <til@tilluchau.net> as the payee). Payments made by credit card or PayPal are $5 more per session. Returned checks and repeatedly denied credit card payments are subject to a $25 fee. Payment is due at each session (or in advance for telephone sessions), unless other arrangements have been made in advance. Please note that session length is determined as much by client response and a mutual sense of completion as by the clock, so may occasionally be slightly less or more than times listed.
- Health and Auto Insurance will often cover the cost of Rolfing, Rolfing Movement, and Bodywork sessions, especially if you have a physician’s referral. I do not bill insurance companies myself, but upon request can provide you with the necessary statements for reimbursement requests.
- As a part of my commitment to make my services available to a broad range of clients, I offer lower cost sliding-scale sessions, payment plans, or referrals for people in exceptional circumstances who could not otherwise afford to receive the work. These are arranged on a case-by-case and space-available basis; please ask in advance of your session if you are interested.
- Absences: my teaching, study, and retreat schedule means that I am occasionally out of town. I keep these absences to a minimum, and give as much advance notice as possible about anticipated travels. If desired, we can arrange for a referral practitioner to be available while I am away. For coaching and process work clients, phone sessions are usually available when I am out of town. If you haven’t received a schedule of my planned absences and would like one, please ask.
- As a courtesy, I’ll usually give you a reminder call or email the day before your in-person session. Please don’t rely on this as your only way to remember your sessions, though, as I’m not always able to provide reminders, and I ask you to be responsible for the cancelation fee below whether or not you receive a reminder. Thank you! If you have any doubt about your appointment time, feel free to call or email. (Reminders are not usually made for telephone sessions.)
- As much advance notice as possible is appreciated for appointment changes or cancellations. Please do not use email alone for changes or cancellations with less than 48 hours notice—please telephone as well. Except for unforeseeable emergencies, full payment is due for changes or cancellations made with less than 48 hours notice.

Are there any additional agreements you would like to make at this time? No Yes:

I have read and agree to the preceding and attached information, and understand my rights as a client.

Disclosure Statement

in Accordance with Colorado State Law

1. Although not all modalities are relevant to every client or to all sessions, the modalities I employ may include hands-on body therapy modalities (e.g., Rolfing[®], cranial, etc.), professional and/or personal coaching, and/or body-centered psychotherapeutic modalities (e.g., Process Work, Hakomi, etc.). The Colorado Department of Regulatory Agencies regulates the practice of psychotherapy by licensed and unlicensed practitioners. Questions, concerns, or complaints should be directed to the State Grievance Board, 1560 Broadway, Ste. 1340, Denver CO 80202 (303) 894-7766.

2. My business address and telephone number are listed above; details about my professional credentials and education are attached.

3. Client Rights and Important Information:

- You are entitled to receive information from me about my methods of therapy and techniques used, duration of therapy (if determinable), as well as policies and fee structure (attached).
- You have a legal right to seek a second opinion from another therapist, or to terminate at any time. As a part of your work with me, I may ask that you commit in advance to a defined number of sessions. This in no way changes your legal rights.
- You should know that in a professional relationship, sexual intimacy between therapist and client is never appropriate, and should be reported to the State Grievance Board.
- All information provided by and to you and will be held in strict confidence. You should know that there are certain circumstances under which I may be forced to divulge information without your consent (such as issuance of a subpoena by a court of law or client involvement in criminal or delinquency proceedings). Should these or other such circumstances arise in our work, I will identify and discuss them with you.

4. Policies

- Policies and fee structure are attached. The most current version is available at www.tilluchau.net or by request.

5. Please feel free to ask if you have any questions, would like additional information, or if there are additional agreements that you would like to make with me.

Therapeutic Methods and Techniques

The methods and techniques employed depend in great measure on the your desires, goals, and needs. We might review your personal history, discuss your expectations and desires, and use that information to collaborate and decide what type of work and which methods to employ. This discussion is ongoing, and methods often shift to accommodate changing goals and desires. When suggesting a technique or method, I may draw from one or a combination of the modalities listed here. For more information about my practice and the methods I employ, you may visit my website at www.tilluchau.net

- Typically, an individual Coaching, Process, or Body-Centered Therapy session, whether in-person or on the telephone, might begin with internally focused awareness work in order to clarify the direction, goals, and themes of the day’s work, or discussion of any “homework” or milestones identified in pervious sessions. This is often followed by discussion, interaction, role-playing, visioning, dream work, breath work, facilitated movement, or other activities. Sessions typically close with discussion about how to integrate and use the session’s material in everyday life, and optional “homework”, awareness practices, or action milestones.

People often choose these ways of working when they are dealing with professional, career, personal, or relationship issues; the psychological or emotional aspects of health or physical symptoms; life change, or other transitions. Although it can be useful to come with a specific goal, topic, symptom, decision, or issue to work with, the most helpful attitude seems to be one of beginning an adventure that may reveal its value and wisdom in surprising ways.

- Professional Supervision or Mentoring sessions with body therapy or coaching professionals can involve specific client issues, or general skill and mastery development. For both single appointments and for a series of appointments, an individualized plan is established that might include time in practitioner, client, or observer roles. Options include observing select sessions with Til’s clients, brining one’s own clients for individual or small group supervision, conjoint or four-handed work, video supervision, etc. Professional Continuing Education Credit is available through the NCBTMB, the Rolf Institute®, and other agencies; please inquire if interested.

- Meeting, discussion, or retreat facilitation is useful for pairs, couples, groups, or teams. These sessions or events often focus on facilitated communication, clarification of roles and expectations, gaining new perspectives, and if appropriate, on conflict resolution or agreement negotiation. Ongoing facilitation work may also include individual sessions with each party. Meeting or retreat facilitation often includes pre- and post-meeting assessment, planning, coaching, and follow-up with the primary client and/or key participants.

- Rolfing®, Rolfing Movement, or Bodywork sessions directly address physical symptoms, postural or performance concerns, or the somatic aspects of self-care and personal transformation. They are typically arranged as either single sessions or as a defined series of sessions (usually 3 to 12 weekly or biweekly appointments), depending on the goals and issues being addressed. Very occasionally, chronic or severe symptoms may require longer-term work, but more often clients will choose to do a series of sessions, followed by a break for integration and application. More info about Rolfing is at www.rolf.org. What to wear for Rolfing: unlike massage, you will be getting up and moving around a bit in a typical Rolfing or Rolfing Movement session, so many prefer to wear something that leaves the legs, back, and other areas available for work (such as gym shorts, sports bras for women, etc.) Undergarments are fine too—your comfort is the primary consideration.

Directions to Nyland Office

My office is located at the north (rear) door at 3501 Nyland Way, Lafayette CO 80026, in the Nyland Cohousing Community, near 75th and Baseline Rd. between Boulder and Lafayette. An online map is available by following the “Sessions” link at www.tilluchau.net.

To get to Nyland from Boulder, drive east on Baseline 1.4 miles past 75th St. Turn right (south) at Nyland Way. Allow about 20-25 min. from downtown Boulder.

From Denver, take US 36 towards Boulder. Get off at Broomfield-Lafayette exit. Go right (north) on US 287 about 6 miles. Turn left (west) on Baseline, drive 2.5 miles to Nyland Way, turn left (south). Allow about 30-45 min. from central Denver, plus traffic.

From Loveland or Fort Collins, take 1-25 south to the Lafayette exit (Baseline Rd). Drive west through the town of Lafayette. Look at your odometer at the intersection of US 287; keep going 2.5 more miles on Baseline to Nyland Way, turn left (south). Allow about 45 min. from Fort Collins.

Bus information: we are located less than 5 min. from the Nyland stop on the 225 line, which runs from downtown Boulder to Lafayette. We are also a 15 min. walk on bike paths from the Washington Street stop on the Dash line. Bus info is at www.rtd-denver.com

Once at Nyland, park in any uncovered space. 3501 is near the south carports, across the small meadow from the main parking lot. The office entrance is on the NORTH SIDE (back) of the building, facing Nyland Way. Enter by following the footpath around the end of the wooden fence.

If you arrive early, a sign may indicate that I’m still in session. We do not have a waiting room, but you may wait on the patio outside, or in the public Common House (the large building with red roof on the circle). Otherwise, come on in, turn the sign around, leave your shoes in the entryway, and make yourself at home in the office. I’ll be with you shortly.

I look forward to working together!

Til Luchau
